Seattle – 206.903.2457

Alexandra is a trial associate who brings determination and careful attention to all stages of litigation.

Alexandra has experience in complex litigation and public service work. She previously served as a summer intern in the Complex Litigation Division of the Washington Attorney General's Office and as an extern with the Alaska Supreme Court, experiences that strengthened her appellate research and writing skills. As a student attorney in the University of Washington School of Law's Civil Rights and Justice Clinic, Alexandra represented clients and deepened her commitment to access to justice. Detail oriented and persistent, she supports case teams with careful research, clear writing, and reliable follow-through.
