

Dave Townsend Shares Considerations for Companies' Coping with Trump's Tariffs

by Dave Townsend

Dave Townsend, a Government Solutions and Investigations Partner, was interviewed about President Trump's increased tariffs on international trade and the options that companies have to cope with them. Most notable are Trump's tariffs on goods from China. Dave pointed out that while companies may be successful in moving operations to countries without such tariffs, they may be confronted with the same issue in the future.

Related People

- Dave Townsend

Read the full article in The Economist. (A subscription is required)