

How Trial Counsel Can Effectively Work with In-House Counsel in Preparing for Trial

by Kent J. Schmidt

Related People

- Kent J. Schmidt

Managing litigation effectively is a collaborative process among trial counsel, in-house lawyers, c-suite executives and others in the company. It is imperative that all participants in the process work together for a successful result. In this episode, we explore these topics with seasoned trial lawyer, J Jackson. Drawing on his decades of experience, J discusses how he works from the beginning of the case to the conclusion of trial, including the crucial step of developing a case theme for trial.

Looking for more SharkCast? litigationrisks.com | Apple Podcasts | Google Podcasts | Spotify