

Joseph Lewin Comments on COVID Lockdown Lost Income Coverage Claims

by Joseph Lewin

Four years after the U.K.'s first COVID lockdown, policyholders are looking forward to wrapping up Court of Appeal claims regarding coverage of lost income during the pandemic's business interruptions. London Partner Joseph Lewin was quoted in a Law360 article discussing appeals specifically based on business interruption policy wording. "Where there is a public interest in revisiting related issues and policies, and the disputed wording is sufficiently distinct from that previously considered, it is plausible that these cases may receive permission to appeal to the Supreme Court," Joseph said.

Read the full article on Law360. (A subscription is required)

Related People

- Joseph Lewin

Related Capabilities

- Commercial Litigation
- Appellate