Denver – 303.352.1167

Lizzy counsels clients on large scale energy transmission and generation projects, negotiates commercial contracts, and provides support to companies in the midst of M&A transactions.

Lizzy collaborates with colleagues, clients, and counterparties to amicably and successfully negotiate contracts and close deals. In her energy practice, Lizzy represents both generators and offtakers in the negotiation and drafting of agreements related to the construction and transmission of energy, including PPAs for the purchase and sale of renewable energy credits. She enjoys helping clients build their business through commercialization and acquisition of intellectual property, securing key partnerships, and navigating strategic mergers and acquisitions. She has advised both buyers and sellers in a variety of asset and stock purchases, and regularly drafts distribution agreements, supply agreements, intellectual property licenses, NDA, and a variety of other commercial contracts.

Lizzy also enjoys working on pro bono engagements. She acts as outside general counsel to Just the Pill, a nonprofit dedicated to providing reproductive healthcare to underserved communities through mobile clinics. Lizzy advocates for Just the Pill within the Denver community and on a national level, working with her Dorsey colleagues as well as reproductive rights organizations and lawyers throughout the country.
