

Margot Laporte Comments on Former Coal Exec's Bribery Trial in Light of Trump's New FCPA Directive

Dorsey Partner Margot Laporte recently commented on the trial of a former coal executive who is requesting his trial be postponed due to Trump's new FCPA directive. Margot pointed out that this is "a foreseeable and natural result" of Trump's new executive order. She added, "I expect that this Executive Order will lead to similar motions to continue any FCPA matters with pending trial dates and other pretrial deadlines, and that it has -- and will continue to -- lead to ongoing engagement between FCPA defence counsel and the DOJ seeking clarity regarding enforcement priorities and past and ongoing FCPA enforcement matters, including those currently under DPA or NPA."

To learn more, read the full article published by Global Investigations Review.

Related Capabilities

- Anti-Corruption
- Government Enforcement & Corporate Investigations
- Executive Actions Resources
- Executive Actions Tracker