

Only in Canada, eh? Canada's Broad Interpretation of Trademark "Use" Gives U.S. Retailers A Big Leg Up

October 23, 2018 – The TMCA

by Sarah Robertson

Related People

- Sarah Robertson

Related Capabilities

- Trademark, Copyright + Advertising
- Intellectual Property Litigation

Two recent decisions of the Federal Court of Canada pave the way for U.S. and other non-Canadian businesses to secure and maintain trademark rights for their retail or hotel operations even where they do not have a bricks and mortar presence in Canada.

