Seattle – 206.903.5422

Raul serves as a trusted advisor to board and executive teams, providing practical, business-focused counsel on strategic and operational matters.

Clients appreciate Raul's collaborative approach and his ability to translate complex legal and technical issues into clear, actionable strategies that advance their business goals.

Raul advises clients on complex mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, and strategic investments, representing strategic acquirers and private equity investors in domestic and cross-border transactions.

He counsels companies across technology, business services, consumer products, manufacturing, and healthcare industries, helping them execute growth strategies and achieve successful outcomes in competitive markets.

His experience includes acquisitions of emerging technology companies, carve-outs in manufacturing and industrial sectors, and strategic consolidations in healthcare services. Trusted by both established market leaders and high-growth companies, Raul combines deep transactional insight with a practical, collaborative approach focused on advancing his clients' most important business objectives.

Prior to joining Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Raul practiced for several years in the Mergers and Acquisitions group at Perkins Coie LLP in Seattle.
